H.R. 2003 is Contrary to U.S. Interests

Threatens U.S. National Security Interests

- H.R. 2003 should not be enacted because it compromises the national security interests of the United States and will not serve its stated objective of advancing freedom, democracy and human rights in Ethiopia.
  - The bill would further destabilize the tense situation in the Horn of Africa by undermining Ethiopian efforts to counter threats of terrorism and regional war posed by Eritrea and radical Islamic insurgents in Somalia. On August 17, 2007, the U.S. State Department announced that it may designate Eritrea as a state sponsor of terrorism, in part due to the finding of a recent United Nations report that Eritrea is supplying Somali insurgents with "huge quantities of arms." While Ethiopia is fighting to support the Transitional Federal Government, recognized and supported by the U.S., the UN, and the African Union, Eritrea is hosting a counter-"reconciliation" conference for the radical Islamic Courts Union.
  - At this critical time, passage of H.R. 2003 would suggest that the U.S. Congress supports, or at the least sees no moral difference, between Eritrea, a country recognized by the U.S. State Department and many others as a "one-party authoritarian state," and Ethiopia which, despite its problems, is clearly an ally and an emerging democratic state.
  - The bill undermines the strategic cooperation between the United States and its strongest and most dependable ally in the region by cutting off critical security assistance to Ethiopia unless the President makes a complex 11-part certification. The bill sanctions all forms of security assistance other than peacekeeping and counter-terrorism. This restriction would deal a fatal blow to the mutuality of interests and sense of shared trust essential to cooperative security arrangements.
  - Ethiopia remains a vital ally of the United States in the fight against terrorism and efforts to promote regional stability, coordinating extensively with the U.S. regional military task force stationed at Djibouti and receiving training from U.S. forces to enhance Ethiopian border patrol and security skills. The Ethiopian government has provided enhanced physical security, conducted investigations and provided protective surveillance in response to threat information directed at U.S. citizens.
  - A part of the U.S. security assistance to Ethiopia that would be curtailed is aimed at improving the Ethiopian military's efficiency and professionalism and promoting mutual understanding and cooperation with the U.S. military. Programs affected include those aimed at influencing the development of military institutions and their role in democratic societies; equipping military leaders with the professional development required to lead and maintain effective military forces under democratic civilian control; enhancing the capacity to respond quickly and effectively to humanitarian crises on the continent; and improving defense capabilities with a view to supporting U.S. regional security goals.

Overlooks Progress Toward Democracy and Reconciliation

- There is no question that the period following the elections of May 2005 was difficult. Mistakes were made on all sides. However, there has been immense progress in Ethiopia since 2005 in creating a competitive, pluralistic democratic system of government and a more open civil society. This legislation does not recognize any of that progress.
  - The Government of Ethiopia and opposition leaders are making major strides toward reconciliation. On July 20, 2007, following convictions and sentencing, 38 opposition leaders were granted full pardons. All remaining 32 members of the opposition were pardoned and released on August 18, 2007.

- According to the U.S. State Department, “[t]he elections stand out as a milestone in creating a new, more competitive multiparty political system in one of Africa’s largest and most important countries.” Opposition party candidates won more than 1/3 of all seats in parliament, increasing the strength of the opposition from less than 3%.
- Despite calls for boycott by extremists in the opposition, eighty-seven percent (150 out of 172) of the elected opposition representatives have joined the Parliament; ninety-six percent of all elected representatives are now in parliament.
- The ruling party and the two main opposition parties in parliament have agreed to a new working procedure and code of conduct, providing legislative rights to the opposition similar to the U.K., thereby resolving opposition objections and paving the way for a functioning multi-party legislative branch of government.

Impedes Further Democratic Progress and Economic Development

- Ethiopia is currently undergoing significant political reconciliation, which will likely continue to result in greater multi-party democratic activity and increased civil society freedom of action. Congressional action that boldly rebukes the ruling party will not likely encourage further movement toward these goals.
- On September 11, 2007, Ethiopia celebrates its millennium, just as we did on January 1, 2000. As part of this occasion, reconciliation efforts have led to the further release of thousands of prisoners. Passage of H.R. 2003 will largely undo this continuing progress toward political reconciliation.
- Far from helping achieve its stated goals, if passed in its present form, the bill would impede progress towards human rights, democracy, and economic freedom in Ethiopia by cutting off bilateral funds for these programs. Further, passage would likely embolden those who would oppose new and ongoing democracy, human rights and civil society programs.
- The bill also impairs funding for all “non-essential” United States assistance, which likely includes US AID programs for development assistance and economic support, both of which support good governance, respect for human rights and private sector growth.
- The bill completely ignores the ongoing reconciliation process, led by a respected Council of Elders, that has been taking place for the last 18 months and that has already led to the full pardon of 70 opposition leaders.

Humanitarian situation in eastern Ethiopia has improved, says U.N. humanitarian chief

The Associated Press

Tuesday, November 27, 2007

KEBRIDEHAR, Ethiopia: The U.N. humanitarian chief urged officials to allow freedom of movement and more aid agencies in the eastern Ethiopian region of Ogaden, where a low-level insurgency has escalated.

John Holmes, the U.N.'s humanitarian chief, visited the remote region Tuesday. In recent months, Ethiopia has expelled the International Committee of the Red Cross and the Dutch branch of Medecins Sans Frontieres from Ogaden. But in recent weeks the government has allowed 19 non-governmental organizations to return to work in the Ogaden, where the rebel Ogaden National Liberation Front attacked a Chinese-run oil exploration field in April, killing 74 people.

In May, the Ethiopian military began counterinsurgency operations, hurting commercial trade and making it difficult to deliver food aid. The rebels, along with several aid and human rights groups, say the military has burned villages and blocked aid and trade into the region. The government denies those accusations.

Holmes said the situation was difficult to assess, but urged local officials to remove transportation barriers and increase the number of non-governmental organizations in the region to 40.

"My impression is it's better than it was," he said. "If there was freedom to move and to trade and to buy and to sell there really wouldn't be a problem."

But, he added, "you can only learn a limited amount from a short visit, obviously. But there is clearly a risk of a serious humanitarian situation here .... We need to make a difference in the next three months."

In the town of Kebridehar, there are signs humanitarian aid was getting through and having a positive effect.

Women thronged a bustling food distribution point, joyfully lugging sacks of wheat and cans of oil to their homes.

"There was some malnutrition before the food distribution, but now we're OK," said Nasra Nadif, 42, a mother of eight. She attributed the lack of food to poor rains in recent months.

Abdi Gani Yusuf, the head of security for the zone, said the government had caught 250 Ogaden National Liberation Front fighters in the past six months. He did not say where the fighters were held.

"These days the security situation is very calm," he said. "There are no security problems these days."

In the zone's only major hospital — a decrepit place with sagging and broken beds — a few patients lounged listlessly in the midday heat. The pharmacy shelves were empty, though Dr. Dereje Seyoum said the hospital's supplies had not been affected by recent transportation prohibitions.

The ONLF is fighting to overthrow the government for what it says are human rights abuses and to establish greater autonomy in a region being heavily explored for oil and gas. The government accuses the rebels of being terrorists funded by its archenemy Eritrea.

Statement by the Embassy of Ethiopia on Action by House Foreign Affairs

Committee

PR Newswire -- September 26, 2007

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 /PRNewswire-USNewswire/ -- The Embassy of the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia in Washington, DC, released this statement by Samuel Assefa, Ethiopia's Ambassador to the United States:

Ethiopia is a close ally of the United States in the fight against terrorism and efforts to promote regional stability in the Horn of Africa. It also is a country overcoming daunting challenges to build a new democracy while improving the economic fortunes of its 76 million people. Today a Congressional committee recklessly approved a measure undermining these efforts and the critical relationship with the U.S. The legislation would put in place sanctions consistent with measures taken by the U.S. only against dictatorships it has identified as its worst enemies around the world. Ethiopia regards this as an unconscionable and irresponsible action by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The Committee approved HR 2003, sponsored by Donald M. Payne, D-N.J., which purports to encourage human rights and democracy in Ethiopia. This misguided bill would do neither.

There can be no misunderstanding about the serious effects of what a small group of Congress members have wrought. This bill ignores the context of what is happening in the region. Ethiopia faces a serious threat from its neighbor Eritrea -- a country that the U.S. Department of State is considering listing as a state sponsor of terrorism, that has rejected democracy and a free press, and that provides no human rights to its citizens. Yet, rather than move against Eritrea, Mr. Payne chooses to condemn America's democratic ally: Ethiopia.

Ethiopia thanks the current U.S. administration for its continued support and carefully considered opposition to this legislation. It also welcomes the support of thoughtful Members of Congress, in the House and the Senate, who understand the reality of the Horn of Africa and recognize Ethiopia's courageous commitment to democracy in one of the most dangerous regions in the world.

Ethiopia is the only African country never to suffer colonial rule. We are a proud and ancient civilization, always open to discussion and advice from our friends. But under no circumstances will Ethiopia accept what it regards as officious intermeddling by misinformed Members of Congress to intrude in our internal politics.

My government encourages all political parties to engage in debate and non-violent democratic action under the rule of law and within the Ethiopian legal system. This bill is a blatant effort to employ the U.S. Congress in support of a partisan Ethiopian political agenda.

The bill ignores the recent bold democratic initiatives taken by our government, the immense progress in creating a competitive, pluralistic system of government and a more open civil society. These measures have rekindled hope and promoted interethnic harmony. We will not waiver from this course. This legislation, should it proceed further, will create fresh obstacles by emboldening those who seek confrontation rather than dialogue, encouraging politics of extremes.

Ethiopia is the strongest and most dependable U.S. ally in a region of strategic importance. It is baffling and deeply troubling that some members of Congress would want to condemn a longstanding friend with such an ill-conceived measure.

Don't Turn on Ethiopia

By VICKI HUDDLESTON and TIBOR NAGY

Washington

NINE years ago, two nations began the first modern war in sub-Saharan Africa, leaving in two years more than 100,000 dead. Today Eritrea and Ethiopia could reignite their old border conflict. Arms and money from radicals throughout the Middle East, as well as troops trained in Eritrea, have strengthened an insurgency in Ogaden Province, in southeastern Ethiopia.

A new war in the Horn of Africa would destabilize the region and bolster radical Islam's push to build a Muslim caliphate.

Sadly, Congress is poised to fuel the march toward war by passing a bill that threatens to cut off technical assistance to Ethiopia, one of our closest allies, if it does not, among other things, release political prisoners, ensure that the judiciary operates independently and permit the news media to operate freely. Ethiopia has already freed opposition leaders, reformed parliamentary rules to give opposition parties greater legislative responsibility and approved a new media law that meets international standards. By singling out Ethiopia for public embarrassment, the bill puts Congress unwittingly on the side of Islamic jihadists and insurgents.

A far better approach would be to buttress Ethiopia against threats to its survival — by helping it resolve its border conflict and ensuring that it reopens negotiations with insurgents and traditional leaders and permits international investigation of reported military abuses (including allegations of rape and murder). Ethiopia has begun this process by allowing the United Nations and humanitarian aid agencies to assist civilians in the Ogaden.

Eritrea demands that the border be marked exactly as determined five years ago. But this places some Muslim and Christian villages on what they consider to be the wrong side of the border, cuts through others and splices certain roads several times. The United States should press both governments to let people who live on the border help reach a mutual agreement on the final boundary.

Ethiopia is a nation where 77 million Orthodox Christians and Muslims live in peace, engaged in building a democracy while besieged from within and without by enemies of democracy. Congress should put aside its bill and instead use creative diplomacy to deal with the combined threat of insurgency and war.

Vicki Huddleston, a visiting fellow at the Brookings Institution, and Tibor Nagy, a vice provost at Texas Tech University, are former chiefs of mission at the American Embassy in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

NASDAQ with Borse Dubai and OMX Takes Leadership to Create a Unique Global Exchange Platform

NASDAQ Increases Certainty of OMX Combination

Borse Dubai to become a 19.99 Per Cent Shareholder in NASDAQ; Restricted to 5 Per Cent Voting Rights

Steps taken to allow DIFX to be rebranded with the NASDAQ Brand

NASDAQ to Become a Strategic Shareholder in DIFX

Borse Dubai Purchases a 28.0 Per Cent stake in LSE From NASDAQ

Analyst and Press Briefing to be Held at 10:30 a.m. CET

20 September – Borse Dubai Limited (“Borse Dubai”) and The NASDAQ Stock Market, Inc. (“NASDAQ”) today announced a series of transactions that will create a global financial marketplace with a unique footprint spanning the U.S., Europe, the Middle East and strategic emerging markets.

According to Bob Greifeld, President and Chief Executive Officer of NASDAQ, “These developments herald an important step forward for NASDAQ. Taken together, these strategic actions will provide us with a footprint unlike any other exchange, creating a global exchange leader, with operations in key markets around the world. On the closing of the transactions with Borse Dubai, and completion of the proposed combination with OMX AB (publ) (“OMX”), we will have the technological infrastructure and the financial strength to serve our customers and to achieve our global ambitions.”

Commenting on today’s announcements, Essa Kazim, Chairman of Borse Dubai, said, “Our primary objective is to build a world class, growth oriented exchange out of Dubai and to become the center for capital markets activities in the emerging markets. By entering into this partnership with NASDAQ, we will benefit from NASDAQ’s world leading brand, technology and platform. In addition, this combination will establish a gateway to large pools of liquidity.”

Agreements between Borse Dubai and NASDAQ

Borse Dubai and NASDAQ have entered into agreements, each of which is subject to a number of conditions. If all the agreements, which are subject to a series of conditions, are completed pursuant to their terms:

- Borse Dubai to become a 19.99% shareholder in NASDAQ (capped at 5 per cent voting rights)
- NASDAQ will acquire all OMX shares to be purchased by Borse Dubai in its offer for OMX
- NASDAQ will become a strategic shareholder and the principal commercial partner of Dubai International Financial Exchange ("DIFX")
- DIFX will be rebranded with the NASDAQ brand and licensed with market leading technology from the NASDAQ/OMX combination

In addition, Borse Dubai has acquired 28.0 per cent of the total issued share capital in London Stock Exchange Group PLC ("LSE") from NASDAQ at a price of GBP 14.14 per share.

NASDAQ To Acquire All OMX Shares Purchased By Borse Dubai; Borse Dubai To Become 19.9 Per Cent NASDAQ Shareholder

Under these agreements, Borse Dubai will continue its existing offer for OMX of SEK 230 per share in cash, and NASDAQ will continue to offer SEK 11.4 billion (USD1.7 billion) and 60.6 million NASDAQ shares for OMX. Upon fulfillment of certain conditions referred to below, NASDAQ will withdraw its offer for OMX, and Borse Dubai will open its offer for acceptances. If these conditions are not met by February 15, 2008, or at an earlier date if any of the conditions cannot be met (the "Termination Date"), the agreements will terminate and be of no further effect, and both Borse Dubai and NASDAQ may pursue their respective offers independently. The Termination Date may be extended in certain circumstances.

Assuming the relevant conditions are met (or waived), NASDAQ has agreed to acquire all the OMX shares (1) already owned by Borse Dubai, (2) purchased by Borse Dubai in its offer and (3) purchased by Borse Dubai pursuant to its options in respect of OMX shares. In exchange for Borse Dubai's shares in OMX, NASDAQ will issue to Borse Dubai approximately 60.6 million NASDAQ shares and pay approximately SEK 11.4 billion in cash, assuming Borse Dubai acquires all outstanding OMX shares. This is the same aggregate consideration included in NASDAQ's offer for OMX announced on May 25, 2007 and implies Borse Dubai will acquire new NASDAQ shares at an indicative implied price of USD 41.01 per share (based on yesterday's SEK/USD exchange rate of SEK 6.5922/USD). Should Borse Dubai not acquire all outstanding OMX shares, the cash portion of the consideration will be reduced pro rata at a price of SEK 230 per OMX share to reflect the actual number of OMX shares sold to NASDAQ.

Borse Dubai will retain approximately 42.6 million of the NASDAQ shares (representing approximately 19.99 per cent of the fully diluted share capital it receives, restricted to 5.0 per cent of voting rights) with the remaining approximately 18.0 million NASDAQ shares (representing approximately 8.4 per cent of the fully diluted share capital) being held in trust, with an affiliate of Borse Dubai as beneficiary, and managed by an independent trustee. These shares will eventually be sold by the trust. While in the trust, these shares will be voted by the trustee pro rata with the votes of NASDAQ's other shareholders. Borse Dubai will be limited to a five per cent voting stake in NASDAQ, which is the maximum allowed by NASDAQ's certificate of incorporation and bylaws.

The parties expect that the above mentioned conditions will be fulfilled in January 2008, and that Borse Dubai's tender offer for OMX's shares will open for acceptances at that time. Thereafter, an acceptance period of at least 20 U.S. business days will follow, on expiration of which, settlement will take place. Borse Dubai reserves the right to extend the acceptance period, as well as to postpone the settlement date. Following the first settlement, Borse Dubai will exercise the options described above. NASDAQ and Borse Dubai have agreed that, until the Termination Date, neither party will amend its respective offer.

The above described agreements are conditional upon a number of customary regulatory and shareholder approvals in both Sweden and other Nordic and Baltic jurisdictions as well as in the United States and approval by shareholders of NASDAQ.

It is contemplated that at the end of this transaction, NASDAQ and OMX will be known as The NASDAQ OMX Group, Inc.

These agreements have the unanimous support of the boards of directors of NASDAQ and Borse Dubai. NASDAQ and Borse Dubai plan to submit voluntarily the transaction for consideration by the U.S. Government.

It is envisioned that the Board of the combined company will be comprised of 16 members of which Borse Dubai will be entitled to recommend two directors and OMX four directors. Borse Dubai's entitlement to recommend two directors is conditional on its maintaining at least 50.0 per cent of its initial investment. If its investment falls below 50.0 per cent but remains above 25.0 per cent, Borse Dubai shall be entitled to only nominate one director and shall be entitled to nominate none at less than 25.0 per cent. As part of its agreement, Borse Dubai has agreed to certain standstill provisions.

Commenting on the rationale for the combination, Mr. Greifeld said, "The combination will create the largest global network of exchanges and exchange customers linked by technology. Since our original announcement of the combination with OMX, we have become even more excited about the prospects for the combined company. The combination provides significant benefits for customers, shareholders and other stakeholders in both companies. We are pleased that our agreement with Borse Dubai allows this deal to be completed in the best fashion for our shareholders, for OMX shareholders and our collective customers around the world."

Regarding Borse Dubai becoming a shareholder in NASDAQ, Mr. Greifeld said, "We are pleased that Borse Dubai has decided to become a shareholder in NASDAQ. This better positions New York, as well as the U.S., to successfully compete with other global financial markets and provides greater certainty around our growth plans, while reinforcing the unique status and strength of NASDAQ's technology and trading platforms."

The combination NASDAQ and OMX will also strengthen the OMX Nordic Exchange and the Nordic region. The combined group will have Stockholm as its European centre for market activities, the headquarters for the Nordic operations as well as global centre for technology development. The Nordic Exchange will continue to operate under the rules and regulatory authorities of each individual marketplace.

NASDAQ to become strategic shareholder in DIFX

NASDAQ and Borse Dubai also announced today that they have entered into an agreement whereby NASDAQ would become a strategic shareholder in DIFX, Dubai's international financial exchange. As part of the investment, NASDAQ will make a financial investment as well as commit to provide DIFX with the NASDAQ brand, OMX technology and marketing resources. This investment is designed to accelerate DIFX's growth in the region and create a world-class electronic exchange and technology platform in one of the world's fastest growing markets.

Per Larsson, Borse Dubai's CEO said, "This transaction is unique and innovative. It is a model for establishing a multinational network of exchanges that works well for investors, listing companies, and associated stakeholders alike. Borse Dubai is proud to be among the pioneers who put this configuration together, and we look forward to working with NASDAQ and OMX to combine branding, experience, technology, and geographic reach to make this mutual investment an example of best practices across all disciplines involved."

Mr. Greifeld noted, "Our investment in the DIFX is an exciting step forward for NASDAQ in a high growth economic region. This investment allows us to leverage our brand and distribute the combined group's suite of products and services through DIFX, one of the most well-developed and established marketplaces in the Middle East and North African region. We look forward to expanding our footprint in these rapidly growing emerging markets."

Borse Dubai to acquire 28.0 per cent of LSE from NASDAQ

Separately, NASDAQ and Borse Dubai announced that Borse Dubai has agreed to purchase 28.0 per cent of the outstanding share capital of London Stock Exchange Group plc from NASDAQ at a price of GBP 14.14 per share. NASDAQ shall retain approximately 3.5 per cent of the outstanding share capital. As previously disclosed, the funds raised as a result of this share sale will be used by NASDAQ to pay down approximately USD1.0 billion of debt and intends to initiate a stock buy back. NASDAQ contemplates that this transaction will result in USD0.30 - 0.35 in additional earnings per share in 2008. NASDAQ may purchase shares from time to time in open market or private transactions, in accordance with applicable laws and regulations, and subject to market conditions and other factors. The repurchases may be commenced or suspended from time to time without prior notice.

CRM/ISS/REGISTRATION UNIT
2008 APR 14 PM 4:59

Mr. Greifeld said that he was pleased that NASDAQ was able to divest its LSE stake to Borse Dubai "We believe the share sale of our LSE stake is in the best interests of our shareholders by unlocking the value of these shares."

Mr. Soud ba'alawy, Vice Chairman of Borse Dubai said "We are very excited about this significant financial investment in the LSE. We are strong believers in the continued strength and success of London as a leading global financial centre, and our investment demonstrates our commitment to that continued success."

Background

On May 25, 2007, NASDAQ and OMX announced that they had entered into a transaction agreement to combine the two companies by way of public offer. The proposed combination of NASDAQ and OMX was recommended by both Boards of Directors. On the morning of August 9, 2007, Borse Dubai announced in a press release that it was in the process of purchasing OMX shares and entering into options to purchase OMX shares in a stake-building process with certain selected investors. Borse Dubai purchased shares at SEK 230 per share representing 4.9 per cent of OMX's total issued and outstanding shares and entered into option agreements with counterparties to purchase another 24.2 per cent of OMX's shares. Following the acquisition of that strategic stake in OMX, the Board of Directors of Borse Dubai decided on August 17, 2007, to launch an all cash offer of SEK 230 per OMX share.

Other Information concerning the Agreements between NASDAQ and Borse Dubai

The conditions under the agreements for Borse Dubai to open its offer for OMX for acceptances include receipt of regulatory approvals, accuracy of representation and warranties, performance of covenants, approval by NASDAQ shareholders, as well as, and certain other customary conditions for agreements of these types.

The conditions for Borse Dubai to open its offer for OMX for acceptances include receipt of regulatory approvals, accuracy of representation and warranties, performance of covenants and certain other customary conditions for transactions of these types. In a joint submission, NASDAQ and Borse Dubai requested and received a ruling from the Swedish Securities Council (Sw. Aktiemarknadsnämnden) on the compliance of the agreements between NASDAQ and Borse Dubai with good practice on the Swedish stock market and with the OMX Nordic Exchange Stockholm rules on Public Offers on the Stock Market (the "Takeover Rules"). In their ruling, the Swedish Securities Council (1) found that the potential postponement of approximately one to two months, due to the new circumstances, of acceptance periods and settlement dates in Borse Dubai's and NASDAQ's offers for OMX, is acceptable; (2) concluded that neither NASDAQ's acquisition of the OMX shares from Borse Dubai after completion of Borse Dubai's offer, Borse Dubai's acquisition of an equity stake in LSE nor NASDAQ's investment in DIFX, is a breach of the Takeover Rules or good practice on the Swedish stock market; (3) granted NASDAQ an exemption from the mandatory bid rule which otherwise would be applicable with respect to NASDAQ's acquisition of the shares in OMX from Borse Dubai; (4) grants NASDAQ an extension of the time period for preparing and filing for approval of an offer document with respect to its public offer to the shareholders in OMX until January 15, 2008 and (5) granted Borse Dubai an extension of the time period for preparing and filing for approval of an offer document with respect to its public offer to the shareholders in OMX until November 1, 2007.

Further to an additional joint submission, the Swedish Securities Council has stated (AMN 2007:32) that, to the extent that the transactions mentioned herein would be consummated and NASDAQ would become the owner of less than 90 per cent of the shares in OMX, the lowest price in a potential subsequent public takeover offer from NASDAQ in order to reach the 90 per cent threshold in OMX shall correspond to the value of the consideration as per the day when a binding agreement was concluded in respect of NASDAQ's acquisition of OMX shares from Borse Dubai (this day was 19 September 2007.)

NASDAQ Obtains Clearance From the Committee On Foreign Investment in the United States

Plans for Proposed Acquisition of OMX AB On Track

NASDAQ Formally Withdraws Stand-alone Offer for OMX, Will Proceed
With Acquisition of OMX From Borse Dubai

NEW YORK, Dec. 31, 2007 (PRIME NEWSWIRE) -- The Nasdaq Stock Market, Inc. (Nasdaq:NDAQ) today announced that it has obtained clearance from The Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States (CFIUS) concerning Borse Dubai's investment in NASDAQ, which will allow NASDAQ to proceed with its plans to combine with Stockholm-based OMX AB (publ) (OMX). NASDAQ and Borse Dubai Limited (Borse Dubai) had previously voluntarily submitted their agreement to CFIUS for review.

As a result of CFIUS approval, NASDAQ said today that as part of its transaction with Borse Dubai, announced on September 20, 2007, it has formally withdrawn its offer for OMX and supports Borse Dubai's all cash offer of SEK 265 per share to acquire OMX. All other previously agreed conditions for Borse Dubai to open its offer have now been fulfilled or waived in accordance with the agreements between Borse Dubai and NASDAQ. Provided Borse Dubai owns in total at least 67% of the shares of OMX and the conditions for closing the transaction under the agreement with NASDAQ have been satisfied or waived, Borse Dubai will sell all OMX shares it owns to NASDAQ for consideration in NASDAQ shares and cash, as previously announced. At the same time, NASDAQ will make an investment in Dubai International Financial Exchange, as previously announced.

NASDAQ's now-withdrawn stand-alone offer for OMX was conditional upon being accepted to such an extent that NASDAQ becomes the owner of shares representing more than 90 percent of the outstanding shares in OMX on a fully diluted basis<sup>(1)</sup>. Borse Dubai will open its offer for OMX for acceptances when the offer document has been approved by relevant authorities.

Taking into account that Borse Dubai today, before the opening of its offer, controls shares, options and irrevocable undertakings which will result in Borse Dubai holding approximately 48.3 percent of OMX's issued share capital and votes when the options and irrevocable undertakings are exercised in accordance with what has previously been announced, it is clear that the 90 percent acceptance condition in NASDAQ's stand-alone offer cannot be fulfilled.

NASDAQ therefore announces today that it withdraws its stand-alone offer for OMX, in accordance with the agreements with Borse Dubai and as presented in statement AMN 2007:32 from the Swedish Securities Council.

(1) Condition number 1 in NASDAQ's announcement of the NASDAQ offer from May 25, 2007.

BORSE DUBAI OBTAINS CLEARANCE FROM THE COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN INVESTMENT IN THE UNITED STATES

PLANS FOR PROPOSED ACQUISITION OF OMX AB AND THE FOLLOW ON SALE OF OMX AB TO NASDAQ ON TRACK

31 December 2007 - Borse Dubai Limited ("Borse Dubai") today announced that clearance had been obtained from The Committee on Foreign Investment (CFIUS) in the United States concerning Borse Dubai's investment in The Nasdaq Stock Market, Inc. ("Nasdaq"), which will allow Borse Dubai to proceed with its investment in Nasdaq.

As all the conditions under the agreement between Borse Dubai and Nasdaq for opening of Borse Dubai's offer (the "Borse Dubai Offer") to all OMX AB (publ) ("OMX") shareholders for acceptances have now been satisfied or waived, Borse Dubai intends shortly to file the offer document relating to the Borse Dubai Offer with relevant regulatory authorities for approval, registration and recognition, as applicable, and expects that its offer will open for acceptances on or around 7 January 2008. A further announcement will be made at that time.

As previously announced, completion of the Borse Dubai Offer is, amongst other things, conditional upon all necessary approvals from public authorities or other regulatory bodies having been obtained. Borse Dubai and Nasdaq are currently investigating whether OMX's recent acquisitions in Norway and Armenia require additional regulatory approvals to complete the Borse Dubai Offer. These matters will not delay the opening of the offer.

Following completion of the Borse Dubai Offer, provided Borse Dubai owns in total at least 67% of the shares of OMX and the other conditions for closing the transaction under the agreement with Nasdaq have been satisfied or waived, Borse Dubai will sell all OMX shares it owns to Nasdaq for consideration comprised of newly issued shares in Nasdaq and cash, as previously announced. At the same time, Nasdaq will make an investment in Dubai International Financial Exchange and enter into certain technology and trademark licences with Borse Dubai and its subsidiary, Dubai International Financial Exchange Limited, also as previously announced.

Dr. Samuel Assefa

Dr. Samuel Assefa, a well-known academic and public figure in Ethiopia, was Vice-President of Addis Ababa University, the country's leading institution of higher education until his appointment as Ethiopian Ambassador to the United States on January 9, 2006.

With a background in philosophy, political theory and international relations, Dr. Assefa taught in the United States for over ten years before returning to Ethiopia after an absence of 25 years. Dr. Assefa was born in Addis Ababa on March 4, 1956. His early schooling took place in Bonn, Germany, where his father served as Ethiopia's Ambassador from 1961 to 1964 and from 1970 to 1974. Upon completion of his high school education in Germany, he pursued undergraduate and graduate studies in the United States. He studied at Swarthmore College from 1975 to 1979 and received his B.A. in philosophy and economics, also winning election to the prestigious Phi Beta Kappa academic association. Upon graduation from Swarthmore, he was awarded a Fellowship at Princeton University and obtained his M.A. and Ph. D. from the Department of Politics, specializing in political philosophy and international relations. At Princeton, where he remained from 1979 through 1984, apart from serving as preceptor in political philosophy, he was chosen by the University to assume the position of Assistant Master of Marhey College, one of Princeton's five undergraduate colleges. From 1984 to 1989, Dr. Assefa taught political theory, international relations and the history of ideas at Williams College. He then moved to the Department of Political Science at Rutgers University, teaching in both the graduate and undergraduate programs until his return to Ethiopia in 1994.

Dr. Assefa returned to Ethiopia in 1994 under the UNDP Transfer of Knowledge and Technology by Expatriate Nationals (TOKTEN) program. He first served as Special Advisor to H.E. Dr. Duri Mohammed, then President of Addis Ababa University, as well as Minister of Planning and Economic Development. He was responsible for the drafting of a new university charter and overseeing related institutional reforms while also assisting H.E. Dr. Duri in his Ministerial capacity in the formulation and drafting of policy papers. Dr. Assefa subsequently taught in the Department of Philosophy at Addis Ababa University and helped re-establish a full-fledged program of study in philosophy after a hiatus of ten years. He fast became one of the most popular instructors at the University, receiving a special award from the student body as a "Role Model for Intellectual Discourse." He continued his teaching duties until 2003 when he assumed the position of Vice President of Addis Ababa University.

As Vice President, he has been responsible for instituting, monitoring and implementing a broad-ranging reform package encompassing both the academic and administrative spheres. He also led an ambitious graduate expansion program as part of a wider effort to transform Addis Ababa University from a principally undergraduate institution into a research university capable of meeting the urgent, vastly-expanded, national demand for highly-skilled professionals. To accomplish both goals, he worked closely with all university bodies, all other public institutions of higher education in Ethiopia, the Ministries of Education and Capacity Building, as well as international partners.

Outside of the university, Dr. Assefa has long been active in Ethiopian public life. In 1993, shortly after the fall of the military regime, he took a leave of absence from his teaching duties and returned to Ethiopia for the first time to work closely with the Chair of the Constitutional Commission in deliberations toward the framing of the new Ethiopian Constitution. Among his many activities in this area, he helped organize a landmark international conference of academics from distinguished institutions, including Harvard, Oxford and MIT, to deliberate on the various challenges of constitutionalism and federalism. Dr. Assefa has organized numerous other conferences on issues of national and regional concern. These include an international conference, held on the eve of the tenth anniversary of the Ethiopian Constitution, on the achievements and shortcomings of Ethiopia's experiment in federalism (2003); a public lecture series held throughout the Ethio-Eritrean War that brought together members of Ethiopian civil society and the international community to discuss the war and the peace process (1998-1999); a conference on the control of illicit small arms in the Horn of Africa (2001). To foster open dialogue on matters of unmistakable public import, Dr. Assefa has often spoken, both in open fora and in print, on issues such as the concept of sovereignty, individual and group rights under the Ethiopian Constitution, judicial and security sector reform, patriotism in a multicultural society and the media's role in elections.

Dr. Assefa has long been convinced of the need for civil society to be actively involved in the search for solutions to both local and regional concerns. To further these goals he has worked with a variety of institutions, among them the InterAfrica Group, the Center for Peace, Democracy and Human Rights, the African Initiative for a Democratic World Order, the Heinrich Böll Foundation and the Bonn International Centre for Conversion. In 1996, Dr. Assefa also helped found the African Institute for Democratic Deliberation and Action (AIDDA), a non-government organization dedicated to research and public deliberation on the problems and possibilities of transitional democracy in Africa. Dr. Assefa, who has worked closely with UNESCO's Culture of Peace program, has been invited by UNESCO's Division of Cultural Policies and Intercultural Dialogue to assist in the establishment of a think-tank of scholars and intellectuals from the Horn of Africa that would identify mutually acceptable solutions to the region's common problems.

Most recently, he has been a founder member of "Ethiopia Past and Future," an ad hoc group composed of ambassadors from leading donor countries and members of Ethiopian civil society that seeks to promote dialogue in the aftermath of the 2005 elections. Among his many civic engagements, Dr. Assefa is a member of the Board of Directors of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church Development Commission.

During the Ethio-Eritrean War, Dr. Assefa worked with Peace Boat, a Japan-based international non-governmental organization dedicated to the promotion of peace and human rights. On the hundredth anniversary of the World Court, he represented Ethiopia in the civil society meetings held in The Hague, discussing, alongside his Eritrean counterpart, the causes and long-term consequences of the Ethio-Eritrean War. Following the peace agreement between Eritrea and Ethiopia, he helped found, with the support of the U.N. War-Torn Societies Project International, a series of consultative meetings, initially "off-the-record," between Eritrean and Ethiopian citizens on problems and prospects of normalization and social reconciliation (2000-2002).

Due to both his personal history and professional background, Dr. Assefa has worked closely with the Goethe Institute and German Embassy in Addis Ababa. During a visit by Chancellor Gerhard Schröder to Ethiopia, Dr. Assefa organized and chaired a meeting between the Chancellor and members of Ethiopian civil society. Similarly, when President Horst Köhler visited Ethiopia, he organized and participated in a panel discussion chaired by the President. In March 2005, in recognition of his contributions to the strengthening of bilateral relations between Ethiopia and Germany, Dr. Assefa received the Goethe Medal, one of the highest honors of the Federal Republic of Germany awarded "to personalities from abroad who have rendered outstanding services to promoting the German language and international cultural exchange."

Dr. Assefa has recently been elected as member of the Board of Directors of the highly prestigious Forum of Federations.

Dr. Assefa is married with one daughter.

Subject: Security Council censures Eritrea for obstructing UN force

I wanted you to be aware of the current treatment of the UN peacekeeping force by Eritrea. It has cut off all food and fuel to the UN force. Ethiopia fully supports the UN mission. Thank you.

AFP

Security Council censures Eritrea for obstructing UN force

UNITED NATIONS (AFP) — The Security Council on Friday blasted Eritrea for obstructing the operations of UN troops monitoring the border dispute between Eritrea and Ethiopia and demanded full cooperation from Asmara.

The council adopted a toughly-worded, non-binding statement of censure after being told by a senior UN official that personnel of the UN mission in Eritrea and Ethiopia (UNMEE) were being prevented from relocating to Ethiopia and were running out of fuel and food.

The 15-member body expressed "deep concern about the impediments and logistical constraints" that have forced the UN mission to conduct a temporary relocation to neighboring Ethiopia.

Asmara's move was apparently in protest against the world body's stance on the border dispute with Ethiopia.

The Security Council "strongly condemns the lack of cooperation (by Asmara) and "demands that the government of Eritrea resume full cooperation with UNMEE, the statement added.

It vowed to consider "further appropriate steps for the safety and protection of the mission and its personnel."

Eritrea's action marked a dramatic escalation of its feud with UNMEE, which has seen Asmara place restrictions on fuel shipments in a move that severely hampers the UN's ability to carry out its mission.

"We are in a situation where it's getting harder and harder to stay (in Eritrea) and it's getting harder and harder to leave and that's an untenable situation," Jean-Marie Guehenno, head of the UN department of peacekeeping operations (DPKO), told reporters.

"It's a very serious situation ... We're running out of fuel, we're running out of food," he said.

"We are trying to engage the Eritrean authorities to resolve the pending issues but this is a situation that is a challenge to the Security Council, to the welfare of our peacekeepers and that has broad implications," Guehenno said.

UNMEE is tasked with monitoring the tense Eritrean-Ethiopian border along which a total of some 200,000 troops from both sides are deployed, fueling fears of a new flare-up.

"A number of UNMEE vehicles were stopped by the Eritrean Defense Forces and prevented from crossing the border. In one such case, on 14 February, UNMEE personnel were threatened and the equipment seized," UN deputy spokeswoman Marie Okabe said.

And she added that the Eritrean commercial company that provides rations to UNMEE announced Friday that "it will no longer be able to fulfill its contractual obligations."

DPKO officials, meanwhile, met with representatives of countries contributing troops to the UNMEE.

UN Secretary General Ban Ki-moon ordered the relocation of UNMEE personnel and equipment after Eritrea ignored his request to lift restrictions on fuel shipments to the UN force.

Asked why Asmara was blocking the relocation involving up to 1,200 of the 2,000-strong UNMEE, a UN official familiar with the situation replied: "We've seen a variety of responses: everything from they simply have to turn around, to they can go through but the equipment has to stay. There seem to be different responses every time."

"We are doing everything that we can on our side, but without the consent of the host government it becomes very difficult to envisage a scenario in which our mandate can be implemented," said DPKO spokesman Nick Birnback.

In a communique, the Eritrean Foreign Ministry said it could not discuss or acquiesce in the "temporary relocation" of UNMEE or some other new "arrangement" that is at variance with the provisions of a peace agreement.

Under the 2000 Algiers peace deal which ended their two-year border war, Eritrea and Ethiopia pledged to accept as "final and binding" a verdict by a UN-backed boundary commission on their dispute.

But the panel dissolved early in December, leaving the frontier delineated only on maps. In its final ruling, it granted Eritrea the border town of Badme, which Ethiopia has refused to accept, saying it split families between the countries.

Eritrea has repeatedly accused its bigger and more powerful neighbor of gearing up for a new war, a claim dismissed by Addis Ababa as a bid by Asmara to divert attention from its internal problems.
